BARRISTERS OPEN MEETING IN CANADA

Begin Annual Gathering of American Bar Association at Montreal

PROMINENT JURISTS SPEAK

Premier Borden Makes Address of Welcome—Lord Haldane and President Kellogg Deliver Strong Addresses

Montreal, Sept. 1.—Premier Borden opened the annual meeting of the American Bar Association today with an address welcoming the most distinguished body of men ever gathered in Canada. The leading jurists of the United States are here, almost without exception, and besides them there are some of the most prominent members of the bar in Canada, England and France.

The session of the Bar Association this morning was devoted to the address of welcome by the Canadian Prime Minister, the annual address of the president of the association, delivered by Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul, Minn., the nomination and election of new members, the reports of officers and similar routine.

Lord Haldane's Address

The Rt. Hon. Richard Burdon Haldane, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, delivered the annual address his subject being "Higher Nationality, a Study in Law and Ethics," and he held the attention of his hearers until the end of his speech, which was only a little under ten thousand words long.

The Lord Chancellor began by emphasizing the fact that the United States Canada and Great Britain together form a unique group because of the common inheritance of traditions, surroundings and ideals, and particularly in the region of jurisprudence. He declared that lawyers are called on in days that lie in front to mould opinion and encourage the nations of this group to develop and recognize a reliable character in the obligations they assume toward each other. He considered that there are relations possible within such a group that are not possible for nations more isolated and lacking identity of history and spirit. Canada, Great Britain and the United States, with common language, common interests, common ends, resemble a single society, which might develop a foundation for international faith of a kind new in the history of the world. The English visitor urged lawyers to assist in the freshening of the conventional almosphere which surrounds men in public life by omitting no opportunity to think rightfully, and to contribute to the fashioning of a more honeful and resolute kind of public opinion. It was the chance of laying before the audience at the American Bar Association at Montreal this thought that induced him to obtain permission from King George V to visit this meeting.

Continuing, Lord Haldane presented the following message from King George V:

"I have given my Lord Chancellor permission to cross the seas, so that he may address the meeting at Montreal. I have asked him to convey from me to that great meeting of the lawyers of the United States and of Canada my best wishes for its success. I entertain the hope that the deliberations of the distinguished men of both countries who are to assemble at Montreal may add yet further to the esteem and good will which the people of the United States and of Canada and the United Kingdom have for each other."

The speaker then pointed to the power of lawyers in creating and developing law, as well as changing it, a power more exercised out of the Legislature than within it. He spoke of the influence of lawyers in the new world in public affairs, which he said, was very striking to the observer. He quoted from President Wilson, as follows: "The country must find lawyers of the right sort and the old spirit to advise it, or it must stumble through a very chaos of blind experiment. It never needed lawyers who are also statesmen more than it needs them now; needs them in its courts, in its Legislatures, in its seats of executive authority; lawyers who can think in the terms of society itself."

Lord Haldane then dwelt at some length upon the difference between formulated law, whether civil or criminal; the moral rules enjoined by private conscience and the spirit of the community for which the English have no name, but which the Germans call "Sittlichkeit," and which he defined as the system of habitual or customary conduct, ethical rather than legal, which embraces all those obligations of the citizens which it is "bad form" or "not the thing" to disregard, the social penalty for which is being "cut" or looked on askance. He pointed out that without such restraint there could be no tolerable social life and said that it was this instinctive sense of what to do and what not to do in daily life and behavior that was the source of liberty and ease, and that this instinctive sense of obligation was the chief foundation of society. He described "Sittlichkeit as those principles of conduct which regulate people in their relations to each other, and which have become matter of habit and second nature at the stage of culture reached, and of which therefore we are not explicitly conscious." After calling attention to the moral organism of the community which is actuated by the general ethical will he distinguished this general will from the will of a mob, which he characterized as a mere aggregate of voices. He pointed out

FOUR KILLED IN AUTO TRAGEDY

Four Machines Wrecked on Race Track at Nashville—Five Thousand Spectators Witness Horrible Disaster — Three Injured.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 1.—Four persons were killed and three injured today when four of the six racing automobiles competing in a 25-mile race at the State Fair Grounds track, were wrecked. A Labor Day crowd of 5,000 witnessed the accident.

The dead are:

John P. Sherrill, driver.
Thomas P. Bridges, mechanician.
William Sherrod, driver.
Gooch Brown, mechanician.

The injured are:

Clyde Donovan and Edward Polk, drivers, and Freeman Ormsby, mechanician.

The accident occurred at a point on the mile track, directly across the field from the grand stand, and in plain sight of the crowds. The six cars were running at a terrific rate, when Donovan, who was leading, was compelled to swerve suddenly to avoid running down a small negro boy who had run across the track. In doing this, he burst a front tire, and in an effort to clear the course turned his car into the fence. The car crashed through the barrier, which fell back on the track. The car just behind was able to avoid the wreckage, but the machines which followed were not so fortunate.

Sherrod's racer struck the obstruction, leaped high in the air and turned a complete somersault.

Into this mass of wreckage plunged Sherrill's car. The machine was demolished, driver and mechanician being instantly killed. The machine driven by Polk was only slightly damaged. All the dead and injured lived here.

DANIELS SPEAKS AT HARTFORD.

Urges That The Government Should Own Its Armorplate Factory.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 1.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels came here today to speak at the Connecticut State fair. He urged that the government should own its armor plate factory.

"We are up against the same thing in armor plate as we were with gun powder, and guns when we started making them for ourselves," he said. "Exorbitant prices were charged for those goods, and now the prices are coming down gradually. We should have an armor plate factory and make at least a part of the armor we need. Then wewill be able to get armor at a reasonable figure."

Secretary Daniels discussed legislation at considerable length. He said:

"The body of laws must grow to keep pace with human invention and progress. Congress at this session will put a law on the statute books to make impersonating another over the telephone a crime. Such a law was not dreamed of until the telephone was invented, and not until the 'wolf' used the telephone to try to influence legislation."

"Nobody thought of an effective law to prevent lobbying until lobbying became a festering sore. The increase of laws is due either to our complex life, or to the need to restrain greed or evil. The fewer the laws, that will carry out the decrees of Jefferson and Lincoln the better. But in our day the cry of 'Let us alone' has come generally from men who were monopolizing the milk and cream."

SAM L. ROGERS WANTS JOB

In Washington Conferring With Senator Simmons About It

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, N. C., ept. 1,—Samuel L. Rogers of Franklin Macon county, is here tonight conferring with Senator Simmons in his appointment to some place with the Wilson administration. Mr. Rogers came to Washington to talk over the matter with the senior Senator at the suggestion of the latter. The Macon county man when seen today would not intimate what kind of a position he expected to get. He said, however, that he would not be appointed as National bank examiner to succeed Fred A. Hull.

Some of Mr. Rogers' friends say that he will be given a consular position, probably at Havana, Cuba. It is believed by those supposed to know that Mr. Rogers prefers a good berth that will allow him to live at Asheville or some other town in the western part of the State. It is even suggested that he is going to be marshal for the western district.

Representative Godwin has received a telegram from the National Bank of Dunn, asking that he secure a $25,000 government crop loan. Mr. Godwin believes he will be able to get that amount and will take the matter up with the Treasury Department tomorrow.

CLARKE WOULD TAX TRADING IN COTTON

Congress

In Speculations Where No Actual Delivery Is Intended

ASSAILS COTTON EXCHANGES

New York Exchange and Its "Parasite" The New Orleans Exchange Characterized as Gambling Institutions.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Senator Clarke addressed the Senate today on his amendment to impose a tax on trading in cotton where no actual delivery was intended. He declared that the New York cotton exchange and its "parasite," the New Orleans Exchange, were no more than gambling institutions, and that those who speculated in coton upon their floors were engaged in a wholly selfish and illegal business.

"New York" he said was "the chief offender, and New Orleans exhange only a minor affair." The New York exhange he argued controlled the prices of cotton for the whole world.

"I think the New York exchange," said the Senator, "is wholly bad, and has no right to exist. It is a gambling institution and it is regarded by everybody who goes there to trade."

Senator Clarke declared that gambling in argicultural products had been condemned by the platform adopted at the Baltimore convention and that the Democratic party in Congress must take steps in conformity with that declaration of principle. He said the actual deliveries of cotton on the New York Cotton Exchange were only half of one per cent of the sales.

Senator Smith of South Carolina answering Senator Clarke, declared that under the amendment proposed the cotton producer would indirectly pay the tax. He argued in support of his own bill making it mandatory for every contract for cotton to specify the grade to be delivered. He asserted that under present contracts with the 27 different grades of cotton, the purchaser never knew what sort he will get until delivery is made. If the contract provided for delivery of a specified grade, no man would dare go short on the cotton exchange, the Senator said.

Senator Thompson wanted to know if Senator Clarke would not be willing to include all other agricultural products in the amendment.

"I am perfectly willing," replied the Arkansas Senator, "but I am not familiar with the others as I am with cotton."

Senator Williams suggested that speculation in other products was not carried on under the same conditions as in cotton.

Senator Ransdell objected to the designation of the New Orleans cotton exchange as "a parasite of the New York exchange." He declared that the rules and regulations were entirely different, the dominating groups were different, and that the New Orleans exchange has an actual commercial settlement of its "differences" rather than an arbitrary settlement by an exchange committee.

Senator Clarke said he referred to the New Orleans exchange as a "parasite" only with the idea that it could not itself control or dominate the cotton market. "Our business there is just as fairly conducted as it can be, and we have no connection with New York" said Senator Ransdell. "New Orleans is strictly a spot cotton market."

"The government grades of cotton were immidiately adopted by the New Orleans exchange; they have not been adopted by New York. The New Orleans exchange is doing all it can to back up the government in its control of cotton grades.'

Senator Clarke said he believed the proposed tax on cotton futures would in the end break up the trading in futures. He thought that for a time it would bring in a substantial revenue for the government, but that ultimately future trading would greatly decrease.

Senator Cummins today introduced an amendment proposing a ten per cent tax on all sales of stocks, bonds, cotton or agricultural products, through organized stock or produce exchanges, "where the seller is not the actual owner of the thing sold." His amendment was offered as a substitute for the Clarke amendment.

Senator Cummins declared stock exchange sales in New York last year were fully 95 per cent "fictitious."

"Not ten per cent of the railroad stocks of the United States change hands each year" he said, "yet the so-called sales on the New York exchange last year amounted to four-fifths of the entire stock issued of all the railroads of the United States. This does not include the sales in Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and other cities."

"This short sale evil is the greatest menace now threatening the finacial and industrial strength of this country" said Senator Cummins. Some day we must undertoke the task of suppressing these gigantic gambling transactions, and I believe this is the theme to begin."

Senator Cummins said he did not seek to abolish the stock exchanges, but wanted to make them "useful" to the country with the scenes of actual trades.

Cummins Attacks "Hhor Selling."

"Short selling" on the New York Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade and on Cotton Products and Stock exchanges generally, was talked of by Senator Cummins today as "one of the greatest vices of the day," as "a menace that threatens the industrial and financial strength of the country." Supporting his amendment he had offered to the tariff bill, proposing a 10 per cent tax on all trades where the seller did not actually own the

REMARKABLE AERIAL FEAT

French Aviator Pegoud, Flies Upside Down in Monoplane for Quarter of a Mile—Describes Letter "S" in Sky

Juvsy, France, Sept. 1.—The daring French aviator, Pegoud, who on August 20th made a parachute drop from an aeroplane from a height of 900 feet, accomplished a much more remarkable feat today, which at first sight appears to have been a piece of extraordinary aerial acrobatics, but which experts declare was an epoch-making experiment towards the attainment of safety in the air. Briefly, Pegoud caused his monoplane to describe a gigantic letter "S" in the sky during which he was flying upside down for about a quarter of a mile.

The strictest secrecy was maintained prior to the test and only a few persons were present when Pegoud took the air. He mounted rapidly to a height of more than 3,000 feet, describing a curve; then the forward part of the machine was observed to incline towards the earth. Through glasses the spectators saw the propeller and the monoplane further incline until it was perpendicular with the earth. It seemed as if nothing could stop the headlong plunge. As the machine dropped swiftly the tail dipped again towards the earth, and the pilot appeared head downward. Seconds which seemed hours passed. With an almost imperceptible curve the machine shifted its course to a straight line, the anxious watchers could not determine, but it was long enough to cause them to believe that he would never right himself.

Presently the monoplane dipped again, and with a graceful curve, assumed an erect position. Pegoud flew for a few minutes to and fro and descended by a series of beautiful spirals. On landing the aviator said:

"Everything went splendidly. The levers answered the slightest touch. I remained for a long time head downwards, because I wanted to, not because I could not help it. The sensation is strange, but not unpleasant and the machine did not pitch at all.

"I went very slowly to avoid subjecting the machine to too violent strain but righted myself much more quickly."

Pegoud's experiment was prompted by the theory recently expressed by Louis Bleriot that in the paramount problem of attaining safety in the air, automatic self-righting devices and parachutes are beside the question; that they are just as much at the mercy of a sudden violent gust as the ordinary air craft.

Bleriot pointed out that even birds are known to have been capsized by squalls, yet they were able by folding their wings to withdraw most of their surface from the action of the air. It was urged that an endeavor should be made to so construct aeroplanes that they could be capsized.

Pegoud undertook to demonstrate that the ordinary aeroplane, not fitted with any special device was possessed of much greater stability than was generally believed, and experts are of the opinion that he succeeded brilliantly.

AMERICANS DEFEAT GERMANS

In First of International Series of Sonder Yacht Races

Marble Head, Mass., Sept. 1.—The three American boats defeated the three German challengers in the first of the international series of sonder yacht races today. The winner was the Cima, owned by Guy Lowell, of Boston. The Spring, owned by J. L. Saltonstall, of Beverly was second, and the Ellen, owned by C. P. Curtis, of Boston, was third. The yachts covered a 7 1-2-mile triangle twice.

The Americans defeated the Germans in the fight for place at the start ,and the foreigners began the contest with a handicap of nearly three minutes.

The fight between the Ellen and the Spring furnished the only excitement, although at times the Angela IV, was very close. The American yachtmen were unanimous in their opinion that the Angela was the fastest of the foreign fleet, and would prove a dangerous antagonist under equal conditions.

Today's race upset the calculations of the experts who had picked the Wittelsbach, and Ellen as the best drifters.

Tomorrow the yachts will sail the second race over a three-mile windaround or 12 miles for the circuit. ward and leaward course twice around, or 12 miles for the circuit.

OUTLINES

Four were killed and three injured when four racing cars were wrecked on the race track of the State Fair Grounds at Nashville, Tenn.

The habeas corpus proceedings against Harry K. Thaw will he heard privately today, according to the decision announced last night by Judge Hutchinson.

With the most distinguished body of men ever gathered in Canada in attendance the annual meeting of the American Bar association was opened at Montreal.

An eqoch making aerial experiment was accomplished by the daring French aviator, Pegoud, who flew upside down in his monoplane for a quarter of a mile, discribing a giant leter S in the sky.

In presenting his amendment before the Senate to impose a tax on trading in cotton where no actual delivery is intended, Senator Clarke characterized the New York exchange and its "parasite" the New Orleans exchange as "no more than gambling institutions.

Nn change has occurred in the relations between the United States and Mexico. Recent dispatches from the trouble zone indicate that many American residents are leaving the country.

THAW CASE MAY BE HEARD IN PRIVATE

Judge Hutchinson Will Hear Habeas Corpus Proceedings Today.

REPORTERS TO BE BARRED

Much Speculation As to What Action the Judge Will Take—Demonstration at the Trial Is Feared

Sherbrooke, Canada, Sept. 1.—Unless Superior Court Judge Matthew Hutchison changes his mind over night, the habeas corpus proceedings tomorrow in the case of Harry K. Thaw, will be held in private. Not even William Travers Jerome, chief of the New York State interests seeking Thaw's return to Mattewan, will be allowed in chambers. Judge Hutchinson announced this decision tonight.

Reporters also are to be barred, according to tonight's arrangements, and while the Thaw lawyers may be present in a body if they desire, only two representing New York are to take part in the proceedings. They are Samuel Jacobs, of Montreal chief Canadian counsel for the State, and Hector Verret, appearing for the Mattawan Asylum from which Thaw escaped.

Thaw will be driven from jail in carriage in charge of Governor LaForce. Hundreds who doubtless will line the streets along which he will pass will be denied a glimpse of Thaw unless he leans out of the cab window.

In chambers it is expected the proceedings will be brief. There are three courses open to the judge. He can adjourn the hearing and ask both sides to submit briefs; he can sustain the writ, which will make Thaw a free man, and place him within the grasp of the immigration officers, or he can deny the writ and remand the prisoner back to jail to await disposition of his case by the king's bench in October.

Thaw's lawyers maintained tonight that the writ, having been sued out by a disinterested party, John Boudreau, chief of police of Coaticook, will not be upheld. Counsel for New York were equally emphatic in declaring Thaw would be released and seized for deportation. Both sides were prepared to fight to the last ditch, Thaw's lawyers to keep him in jail, New York's to get him out.

Mr. Jerome expressed no surprise at the decision of Judge Hutchison. "I doubt whether I would have gone to court anyway," was his comment.

Police arrangements to meet possible pro-Thaw demonstrations in the court room, or on the streets were held in abeyance tonight, although it was understood that secret service and uniformed officers would be on hand in case of emergency.

The holding of the hearing in chambers raises a nice problem that no one here tonight cared to solve off hand. It was this: If the writ is sustained and Thaw is automatically set at liberty, will the immigration officers have a right to enter the chambers and arrest him. E. Blake Robertson, assistant superintendent of immigration with two assistants, will station himself in the corridors just outside the chambers and watch the door like a car.'

Those with the gambling instinct dominant were wagering two to one tonight that the writ would not be upheld.

Many letters threatening Jerome's life have been received by him since his arrival here. Most of them were written by cranks. While Jerome takes such missives lightly, he is being guarded constantly by private detectives. This afternoon a crank tried to enter his room, but was steered away.

Demonstration Feared

Crowds streaming into Sherbrooke today for fair week, all determined to get a glimpse of Harry K. Thaw, so impressed the authorities by their numbers and outspoken sympathy for the fugitive from Mattewan, that Superior Court Judge Matthew Hutchinson conferred with Sheriff Aylmer with regard to the advisability of holding the habeas corpus hearing tomorrow in private.

The judge had in mind the demonstration for Thaw on Wednesday last, when counsel for New York were ruled out of court, and every effort will be made to prevent its repetition.

The sheriff custodian of the court house, argued against a secret hearing on the ground that it would outrage the British idea of the courts being open to all. This afternoon the question was undecided, and plans for a heavy police guard were being made.

It is estimated that 20,000 persons, besides Sherbrooke's normal population of 20,000, will be in town this week. To hold them in check there will be on hand four separate squads of police. These will include the Dominion police, Dominion secret service men, co-operating with the immigration authorities, provincial uniformed police, and provincial plainclothesmen, under command of Kenneth McCaskill; familiarly known throughout Canada as "Pete."

Thaw's lawyers went forward today with their plans for preventing his release on the writ of habeas corpus tomorrow. If the writ is sustained there will be a dramatic scene in the court, for the instant Thaw is a free man E. Blake Robertson, acting for the immigration department, will step forward, tap him on the shoulder and announce, "I arrest you in the name of the king."

Secure for one day at least from any sudden judicial action against him, this being a legal holiday, Thaw spent the forenoon with his stenographer, attending to his voluminous mail. His counsel discussed their plans for appeal in the event that they had any pretext for his action. An appeal against a writ of habeas corpus would in a sense, destroy the efficiency of the writ and the rights of a citizen, guaranteed centuries ago under the Magna Charta. It would mean that hereafter a prosecutor could appeal from a sustained writ and stay proceedings after a court had ruled that a prisoner was detained illegally.

William T. Jerome, special assistant attorney general for New York State, retained to get Thaw back to Mattewan, returned to Sherbrooke this afternoon. He went to Quebec on Saturday and thence to Montreal, where the American Bar Association is in session.

LIND PLANS HAZARDOUS TRIP

Will Visit Sugar Plantation Sixty Miles South of Vera Cruz Where Bandits Have Operated With Impunity

Vera Cruz, Sept. 1.—President Wilson's personal representative, John Lind and Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American warships here, have planned to leave tomorrow morning on a visit to a sugar plantation 60 miles to the south in a district where rebels or bandits have been operating with comparative impunity.

The trip will be taken on the invitation of R. M. Emory, an old friend of Mr. Lind's, who is now managing the plantation.

It will be necessary for Mr. Lind and Admiral Fletcher to ride for two hours on horse back after leaving the station at Tierra-Blanca. They expect to remain 24 hours at the plantation, returning to Vera Cruz on Wednesday. Although the region through which their route lies is the field of rebel operations, these have not been on a big scale. Independent bands have been engaged in looting the haciendas, which for the most part are unprotected, and so far, the government has made no systematic effort at repression.

Hold-ups of trains on the road over which the Americans will travel to Tierra-Blanca are of a common occurrence. The passengers, however, have not been subjected to great inconvenience as the bandits or rebels usually are satisfied to levy on the contents of the express cars. Mr. Lind and the admiral are placing reliance in the assurance of Mr. Emory that there will be no danger in the trip and the probabilities are there will be none.

The confusion over the transportation of Americans from Mexico continues because Consul Canada is unable to supply anything better than second-class passage. Consul Canada's only new instructions are to send persons living in the eastern part of the United States by way of New York; those in the Middle States by way of Galveston, and those in the Western States by way of Salina Cruz. No transport has arrived here.

REMAINS FOUND IN RIVER.

Body of Nebrask Man Discovered Under Wharf at Kansas City.

Kansos City, Mo., Sept. 1.—The body of a man with knife wounds on his body was found under the Municipal Wharf late today, and papers found in his pockets led the police to believe that Paul H. Thompson, deputy fire commissioners of Nebraska, had been slain and thrown in the river. A coat and a panama hat, both of them bloody and cut with a knife were floating under the wharf.

In the coat was found an undated letter addressed to Mrs. P. H. Thompson, Omaha, and a letter from John H. Morehead, Governor Nebraska.

Mr. Thompson registered at a hotel from Grand Island, Nebraska. He attended a theatre last night, but was not seen about the hotel today.

Python Was Twining Itself Around Showman When Help Came.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Sept. 1.—Immediately after he had been taken from the box in which he came from New York, "Pongo," a young python owned by an exhibitor at a carnival here, became bad and frightened his 12-year-old keeper. The girl was driven from the enclosure by the snake, and when assistants came Pongo wrapped the fifteen feet of his length around Henry Wane, one of them. He was removed before the man was harmed except for temporarily hindered circulation. The reptile came from the assortment of a classic dancer and had not become accustomed to its strange environments.

HOME INFLUENCE NEEDED.

Vice-President Marshall Says it Will Curb the Tango.

Washington, September 1.—Home influence and not legislation is needed to curb the "tango" and the "turkey trot" and slit skirt wearing, in the opinion of Vice-President Marshall. Mr. Marshall was the principal speaker Sunday at the camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Great Falls, Va. He lameted the fact that the church of today was losing its hold upon the people. "There is an intimate relation between good government and religion," said he, "and in this day the people have no strong religious opinions—merely prejudices. It is high time that people were waking up."

ACTION SLOW IN MEXICAN TANGLE

NEGOTIATIONS DEADLOCKED

United States Continues Waiting Attitude—Little Change in The Situation Since Wilson Delivered Message.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Secretary Bryan today remained at the Stte Department, for news from Mexico, until a few minutes before his train left for the Maryland shore, where he lectured tonight. As hastened to the train, he declared nothing had been received except messages relating to the movements of American citizens in the Republic.

Earlier in the day the Secretary had conferred with Senator Bacon, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and boh stated that no further suggestions had been made by Special Envoy Lind to the Huerta government, and that no overtures from the Mexico had been received.

Reports from Torreon that six Americans had been killed had no verification in State Department advices, but a bulletin was forwarded to the department from the American consul general at Monterey, stating that five Americans who left Torreon last Monday had been accounted for, three of them reaching Monterey Saturday night, and to remaining at Reata to dispose of their horses.

According to State Department adices the Americans who reached Monterey reported that they were well treated by all Mexicans with whom they came in contract. They said the federals still held Torrean, while the revoltutionists controlled Gomez, Palacio and Lerdo.

The care of American refugees from Mexico was the subject of routine messages between the department and American officials in Mexico and along the border. Red Cross authorities at New Orleans were notified that Americans from Mexico in need of assistance be helped to reach their homes in this country.

Secretary Bryan had been in communcation before his departure with President Wilson at Cornish, N. H., but said he did not know whether the President would return to Washington tomorrow. It was the general impression that President Wilson would not hasten back unless there were indications of some immediate development in the present deadlock in the negotiations between this government and the Huerta regime.

An official, conversant with Mexico affairs, stated tonight that the waiting attitude of the United Staes was a correct one, and that it would force important developments before many days, despite intimations in the last note of Senor Gamboa that the next move would be expected from Washington.

It was said tonight that John Lind, the American special envoy in Mexico, would remain in Vera Cruz indefinitly; that he was not contemplating any immedate move, and that he was only waiting for a chance in the situation which it was calaculated would not be instigated by him or by any move from Washington. As far as the United States is concerned, it was stater, the negotiations stand just where they did when President Wilson addressed congress and advised American citizens to leave Mexico. Senator Bacon said today that this advice was not given with any intimation that it might mean ultimate intervention.

Ammunition Seized.

Eagle Pass, Texas, Sept. 1.—Seven barrels of ammunition, 28,000 rounds, billed as lard and labelled at "J. M. Guiterez, Piedras Negras, Mexico, "were seized by United States military authorities here today. The ammunition which came from a San Antonio address was packed in salt and bran to prevent ratling. Three of the barrels were taken from a wargon in which they were being carted over the international bridge. The others were found in a railroad freight house.

LEADERS WON DOUBLE BILLS

Athletics Took Two From Senators Naps Two from White Sox—Boston Couple from Yanks and Detroit Won Both

Labor Day proved Home Team Day for the American League teams, all pulling off double bills, and in each case the home team taking both ends of the arguments, in most cases by very decisive scores.

The Philadelphia Athletics walked over the Washington Senators in both games of the Labor Day schedule, taking the first game from Joe Boehling by a four to one score. Big Chief Bender showing another spurt of his old-time form in this contest, pitching the entire nine innings and allowing but five hits, four of these coming in the first inning. Boehling had very poor support and was free with passes. The second game, presided over by Walter Johnson and Brown, Houck and Bush, went by a six to five score, after ten innings.

After winning the final from the St. Louis Browns by a nine to one score Sunday afternoon, the Cleveland Naps descended on the Chicago White Sox yesterday and took both ends of the day's events by decisive scores. The first game was twirled by Cicotte, and he received poor support, errors figuring greatly in the scoring. The second game was a shut-out, 7 to 0, it being the Naps' eighth successive victory, and the third straight shut-out hurled by Falkenberg.

The Boston Red Sox won both ends from the New York Yankees, taking out the starch which Saturday's double victory had put in the Yanks.

The Detroit Tigers took two slow games from the St. Louis Cardinals Ty Cobb and Crawford figuring in the winning muchly.

Afternoon Game

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—A batting rally after two men were out in the tenth inning enabled Philadelphia to win from Washington this afternoon by 6 to 5. Walter Johnson disposed of the home team's first two batsmen in the tenth and then E. Murphy singled and scored on Oldring's double. The latter scored the winning tally on Collins' single.

Tigers Took Two

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 1.—Detroit took two listless games from St. Louis this afternoon 10 to 5 and 5 to 2. Timely hitting and loose playing by the visitors gave the Tigers both contests. In the sixth inning of the first game with the bases filled, Cobb hit safely to center and the ball rolled to the fence, allowing all of the runners to score.

In the second contest, in the first inning, Crawford drove a home run into the centerfield bleachers.

"Georgia Peach" Will Become Yankee.

Detroit, September 1.—Detroit fans and fanabelles are up in arms against Manager Navin, over the reported sale of Tyrus Raymond Cobb to the New York Yankees, but are still hopeful that the reported sale is a hoax perpetuated by some newspaper writer, although the concensus of opinion is that there is no mistake about it, the first intimation to the public coming through a stockholder in the Detroit club last Saturday night. The price reported paid for Cobb is $40,000—by far the largest sum ever paid for a baseball player.

It is currently reported that the reason for Cobb's sale was Manager Navin's unwillingness to pay the high salary which he was forced to offer Cobb on a three-year contract in order to get his signature to a contract last Spring. The Yankee club, owned by a multi-millionaire, has plenty of money and is giving Manager Frank Chance a free hand in the purchase of promising material, and the purchase of Cobb, it is thought, will add more to the club than that big amount placed for any other players which might be obtainable.

GIANTS WON BOTH GAMES

Phils Also Took Double Bill from Brooklyn—Reds and Pirates Divided—Cubs Won One and Tied Another

The New York Giants still further lengthened their lead and prepared the way for easy sailing during the closing weeks prior to the championship series by taking both ends of a double-header from the Boston Braves yesterday in the Labor Day double bill. Al Demaree in the first game twirled consistent ball throughout, and in the second contest Rube Marquard twirled the Giant end of one of the most sensational pitching duels ever seen on the Polo Grounds, a game that went for fourteen innings. Merkle, the famous untouched of second base, won the game in the final inning on his triple, scoring on Murray's single.

The Phils also kept the pace by winning two games from the Brooklyn Dodgers, the morning game by a six to two score and the afternoon affair by a count of three to two.

The only schedule of yesterday in the majors which was divided, was between the Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates, the former winning the morning contest, while the afternoon matinee went to the Buccaneers by a five to one score.

The Cubs won the opening game of the day from the St. Louis Browns, but the second was called on account of darkness in the eighth inning with a two-two score.

Beales Becker's Help to Phillies

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 1.—One of the surprises of the year in baseballdom has been the comeback of the Phillies after their crushing setback by the Dodgers and Gians. While looking around for a solution to the problem among the important factors, don't fail to ovelook one Beals Becker, who has hund up his suit in Boston, New York, Cincinnati and Philadelphia club houses.

One big trade that has been overlooked all around the circuit was the swap of Dodge for Becker. Neither man was of any practical use to Cincinnati or Philadelphia, but when the trade came both did yeoman service for their new masters.

Becker was hitting around .260 for Tinker, and was not fielding in any too sensational style. Besides Joe had a number of good outfielders after the trade with the Giants. Dodge had the reputation as a wonderful fielder but a weak hitter while with Philadelphia. He was given little chance to show in Quakertown, but Charles Dooin gave the statement that he was the premier fielding sacker in the business.

Since he came to Philadelphia Becker has picked up fifty points in his batting, and is the second leading slugger of the league. Many of his long smashes have broken up a game for the Phils. Becker has thirteen doubles, ten triples and eight home runs. His teammate, Cravath is the only man that tops him in this line.

Dodge started off like a streak with the stick for the Reds, and won a number of games by his timely clubbing. His pinch hitting featured the work of the Reds during the month of July. Dodge has dropped back to .260 which is good for an infielder, and his fielding has been excellent.

Winter Work For Johnson

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—There is no pitcher better qualified to tell his fellow craftsmen how to succeed in their profession than Walter Johnson, the star of the Washington American league club. Mthewson, of course, is looked up to more, but what "Matty" would advise and what Johnson advises are undoubtedly as like as two peas.

Johnson attributes his success to the following program of living:

"I was born on a farm, and I love the life. A good many ball players don't but I do. When the baseball sesaon is over I go back to our farm out in Kansas and work on the place right through the winter, just like any of the men. I get enough of the big towns and the bright lights during the summer, and I am glad to get back to the farm and do farm work just as soon as I can. And I always hate to come-back east every spring to begin playing baseball again.

"I have often said, and no one has disputed me, that I work harder every winter than any other ball player. The result is that in the spring I am just as hard as I was in the autumn. Instead of hanging around hotels and poolrooms in some big city I am out on the farm, getting up every morning before daylight and going out to help feed the stock. Then I come back to the house for breakfast, have a good, healthy appetite and eat accordingly.

"After that there is a lot more work to be done around the place. I put in a good day every day in the week, and by the time night comes I am ready to turn in early, for I know that the next morning I must get up just as early and start out again, lantern in hand, sometimes with the thermometer way down below zero, for we have it cold out our way lots of the time during the winter. I don't do it so much because I have to, but because I like to, and I haven't yet run across any ball players with whom I would swap places during the off season."

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 1.—The Argentine Republic team today won the first trophy of the International Target Tournament, the Argentina-America naval trophy with a total of 1,612 points, while the United States navy had a total of 1,490. The match was held on the 300 metre range, the 600 yards, and the 1,000 yard ranges. The wind today bothered many of the foreign shooters, especialy the Swiss, who are used to the cool mountain breezes.

Corporal Michael Fennessy who was accidentally shot today, while acting as a scorer in the 75 yard miniature matcvh, is in a critical condition.

The Canadian shooters will not reach camp until Tuesday noon.

Five sharp shooters of the Italian Shooting Society of New York city arrived today to take part in the individual matches.

CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONS.

Something of the Creditable Record of Company B the Past Season.

Equalling, if not surpassing the record made by any amateur baseball team in the country for the present season, Company B, the champions of the City Baseball League, on last Saturday rounded out their season's work and were awarded the handsome loving cup donated by Mr. George Honnet.

The past season was featured by the high grade of bang-up baseball that has been produced, not a slow game having been pulled off during the entire season, and the winning of the championship by Company B, therefore, takes on much additional honor, for the members composing that team. Playing in seventeen games during the season, they won 13 of the contests, for a percentage of .812. Only three games were lost, the other game being a tie, which was not played off.

Register, Company's B's mainstay at the twirling end, was the real star of the league, having won twelve out of fifteen games pitched for a season's average of .800. Frank Andrews, the star left fielder, led the team in batting with a percentage of .380, having participated in every game played. Litgen, right field, came second, with .285, and Taylor, center, third, with .250. Charles Burnett has the honor of being the best back stop in the league, and trotters of the paths long ago learned the sure penalty of an attempted steal on him.

The infield, though composed mostly of young men, was always on the job, and pulled off many brilliant plays, and as for being together, "what it took to co-operate they had it." The star infield for the entire season lined up: Burnett, Bob, first; Register, H., second; Shepard, Norman, third, and Palgren, short. The fielding average of the infield for the season was .875.

The outfield was conceded by many to be the best in the league, being composed of: Andrews, left; Taylor, center, and Litgen, right. Their fielding record was .975.

While each man on the team contributed his full share towards "bringing home bacon," especial credit should be given to the able leadership of Captain Harry Register, who worked hard on and off the field, and has had bestowed upon himself a deserved honor in the awarding to his team of the handsome trophy cup.

WATER SUPPL[illegible] MILK

Shown by Analysis [illegible]ist and Public Notice is [illegible]ailure to Make Improv[illegible] Given as C[illegible]

As superintendent of Health Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt yesterday morning received a communication from Mr. W. E. Merritt, superintendent of the Water and Sewerage Department of the city, in which he reports the fact that analysis by the State chemist of a sample of water taken last Wednesday showed the presence of colon bacilli, indicating pollution by sewage.

Dr. Nesbitt gave out a statement in which he said that the health department has known all the Summer, and has repeatedly given notice to this effect that the water was in imminent danger of becoming badly polluted because of the failure of the Water and Sewerage Department to provide the necessary improvements at the waterworks plant as recommended and strongly urged by the County Board of Health.

Performs Sacred Duty

The following is the communication from Mr. Merritt:

"September 1st, 1913.

"Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt, Superintendent of Health, City.

"Dear Sir: I beg leave to report to you officially that the report of a sample of the public water supply sent to the State Board of Health, according to law, on August 27th, shows the presence of common colon bacilli in 10 cc and in 1 cc, indicating sewage pollution. Knowing the great danger of such a state of things, I hasten to notify you (not waiting for mail delivery but by messenger) in order that you may have an opportunity to warn the public in the daily press of this danger in order that they may protect themselves.

"I would not presume to suggest to you the line of your duty, but I must insist that this information be not withheld from the public for a single day. I consider it the most sacred part of my official duty to give the public all the protection against disease that lies in my power.

"Kindly let me hear what action you will take so that I may govern any further action on my part accordingly.

"Respectfully,
W. E. MERRITT,
"Superintendent."

Trouble All the Summer

Dr. Nesbitt said that the health department has had trouble all the Summer in keeping the water pure. Notice to this effect, he said, has been given through the press and at meetings of the Board of Health and City Council.

"But," he continued "at no time did the water show sufficient degree of pollution to warrant notification to the public. The first sign of pollution was on June 2nd. The Board of Health was promptly notified of the danger and on June 5th the board took action.

"Chairman Willard, of the Board of Health, and myself appeared before the City Council on June 7th, two days after action was taken by the health board, and we told of necessities and the action of the Board of Health and also explained the possible danger.

"Mr. Catlett, the chemist at the waterworks plant, has been watching the water ever since and has successfully prevented any dangerous pollution.

Pointed Out Danger

"The necessities of the water plant were pointed out to the City Council at the meeting on June 7th and the Board of Health recommended that the city secure a supply of suitable sand to increase the filters to a proper depth, the installation of an apparatus for applying chlorine gas for preservation of water and connecting two settling basins so that chemicals could have more prolonged action.

"It was not until July 27th that the chlorinzation was secured and up to and including the present time, nearly three months after the recommendation, the settling basins are not connected and the filters have not been repaired, as recommended by the County Board of Health.

The Long Delay

"We have repeatedly made the effort to have these recommendations carried out. The public thoroughly knows the difficulties and the cause of the delay in securing these important measuers for the protection of the city water supply.

"The sample taken by the city authorities for analysis by the State chemist was taken on August 27th, according to Mr. Merritt's letter. Our own analysis shows traces of pollution on August 26th. On that day chlorine was increased and there has been no sign of pollution since that time. It must be remembered that the State chemist examined the water in both June and July, if the Water and Sewerage Department complied with the law by sending him samples, and there was no report of pollution.

"If the citizens had been exposed to any danger in this respect it is certainly not because of lack of interest and activity on the part of the health department. Such evidences of pollution as our analyses have shown have been but the character of danger signals and have not warranted any public announcement.

"The public may rest assured that under the existing circumstances which include the great difficulty we have experienced in securing co-operation of the Water and Sewerage Department, we would not permit ourselves to be forced by a condition of serious water pollution, for which we are in no way to blame, without announcing the fact in the public press to say nothing of the desire to perform a public duty in a proper manner."

Dr. Nesbitt said that in order to be on the safe side that it would be well for all patrons to boil the city water before using it until the city carries out the recommendations made by the County Board of Health.

WAS STEALING LARD

Other Articles Found Which Were Taken from Freight Cars

Mr. Joe Everitt, watchman at the Hilton bridge, saw a negro Saturday night with a sack on his back which looked suspicious. When he hailed the negro he dropped the sack and ran. When examined it was found to contain several pails of lard which had been shipped from the D. L. Gore Co. Mr. Everitt brought the lard to police headquarters, and reported what had occurred. Officer Leon George was sent to look into the matter, and upon investigation found a sack of butter beans and some other merchandise hid near Ninth and Swann streets. It is supposed that the stuff was stolen from freight cars by negroes. Chief Williams reported the matter to the Atlantic Coast Line officials, and also has the matter under investigation by officers of the police department.

FREIGHT OFFICE DIVISION

Prominent Officials of Seaboard Air Line in City Yesterday Arranging for Enlarged Duties of Local Office

Messrs. C. R. Capps, vice president of the Seaboard Air Line in charge of freight traffic, and R. I. Cheatham, assistant freight traffic manager, both of Norfolk, Va., were in the city yesterday for the purpose of completing the arrangements for making the commercial agent's office here a division freight office with Mr. E. E. Hunter in charge as division freight agent. They left on the 3:05 train yesterday afternoon to visit several other Southern cities.

Mr. Cheatham stated yesterday that while it was the understanding when Mr. Hunter came to Wilmington the 18th of last month to take the place made vacant by the resignation of Mr. F. A. Fetter that he would be made division freight agent no public announcement was made because the new offices for the agency were not ready, and the force for taking care of the increased business had not been secured.

The old reception room on the first floor of the Orton Hotel to the right of the entrance has been fitted up with fixtures of the most modern style and the office was moved into the new quarters last week. The walls have been repapered and new wainscoating put in. Everything has been put in readiness for beginning the new month with the enlarged business.

Mr. Cheatham stated that the additional territory which will be under the direction of Mr. Hunter includes all points in North Carolina on and south of the Seaboard Air Line Railway from Hamlet to Lumberton, inclusive, with the exception of Gibson. The former territory covered by this office included all points in North Carolina on and south of line commencing at Ocracoke Inlet, on Pamlico Sound, running westward through Bayboro, Newbern, Winsatt, Magnolia, Parkersburg and St. Paul, thence line of V. & C. S. Railroad to and including Lumberton, thence line of Raleigh & Charleston Railroad to the South Carolina line.

In addition to these points Mr. Hunter's office will cover all points in South Carolina on the Raleigh & Charleston Railroad. Tariffs for all points lying in the territory as outlined above will be on file at the office here. All Seaboard agents between Hamlet and Wilmington will report to Mr. Hunter, and also all agents on the Raleigh & Charleston. Mr. Hunter's office will be under the direct supervision of the general office at Norfolk. In fact, Mr. Cheatham said, it will be just as near a general agency as it is possible to have without being one in fact.

The old office of commercial agent for this point has been abolished, its duties being assumed by the new agency.

The new office will have passenger representation just as soon as the details can be worked out. A city ticket office will be maintained where tickets can be purchased and Pullman reservations made. There will also be on file passenger schedules and rates for all roads in the country as well as other data of interest to the traveling public.

There will be at least five men employed in the new office to take care of the increased business. In the past there has been only one man employed in the office besides the commercial agent.

It is the intention of the Seaboard officials, according to Mr. Cheatham, to furnish every facility for the accommodation of Wilmington business men. They will be able to secure from this office any desired information relating to classification and rates for shipping freight via the Seaboard to any point in the country.

Back From Sad Mission.

Mr. John J. Fowler returned to the city yesterday from Sumter, S. C., where he was called Friday to attend the funeral of his wife's mother, Mrs. C. G. Bultman, whose death occurred Thursday after an illness of three weeks. Mrs. Fowler and daughter, Miss Nellie Fowler, will remain at Sumter for some days yet. The funeral was held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dr. F. W. E. Peschau, of Miamsburg, Ohio. Twenty years ago Dr. Peschau conducted the funeral of Mrs. Bultman's husband at Sumter. Dr. Peschau has been visiting in this city for the past several weeks and went to Sumter Friday morning with Mr. Fowler to conduct the services.

Relieved of Itching, Burning Eczema by Saxo Salve.

"I suffered from eczema, and the itching was so intense I did not get a night's rest for five months. My face, neck and body were covered with large red patches. I tried every eczema remedy on the market, also six different doctors and a specialist. None knows how I suffered without relief. As a last resort I tried Saxo Salve, it stopped the itching at once and worked like magic. I wish I could tell every eczema sufferer what Saxo Salve will do for them."—Wm. LABOR DAY WAS CELEBRATED

Several Thousand People Visited the Beaches Yesterday—Formal Celebration at Wrightsville Beach

Yesterday was observed as a holiday by a large part of the population of Wilmington, all the banks and public offices being closed for the day as well as many of the business houses. The formal celebration of the day took place at Wrightsville Beach under the auspices of the Wilmington Trades Council. Addresses were made in the afternoon by Mayor P. Q. Moore and W. P. Stacy, Esq. after which came the athletic and aquatic events.

During the morning there was a yacht race under the auspices of the Carolina Yacht Club. Hundreds of people went down to Carolina Beach to spend the day, and there were also several hundred who went over to Lake Waccamaw to take part in the celebration there.

Early in the morning people began leaving for Wrightsville Beach. There was a special train for the laboring men and their families leaving Front and Princess streets at 9 o'clock, and also one in the afternoon. The crowds at Wrightsville were not quite as large this year as last owing probably to the fact that many went out of the city to other places.

The steamer Wilmington was filled to overflowing on its morning trip to Carolina Beach, and carried a large crowd in the afternoon. There were a large number who went down last night. The special features of interest there were the dancing and the music by Prof. Johnson's orchestra. The quietness of this resort has proved to be very popular with Wilmington people.

At Wrightsville an enjoyable feature was a large basket dinner which was served on tables on the first floors of Lumina pavilion. During the afternoon there was delightful music by Prof. Greenblatt's orchestra, and both round and square dancing. The entire day was much enjoyed by those who had the privilege of spending the time at Lumina. There were many who braved the surf, and found it to be as enjoyable as ever.

Celebration Begins

The formal celebration began at 2:30 o'clock when Mr. Luther B. Jones, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the local Trades Council, introduced Mayor Moore, who received a most hearty greeting from the large audience which had assembled in the pavilion at Lumina. The mayor was at his best ando was heard with the greatest interest and the most careful attention as he pictured in simple but eloquent language the history of the rise and growth of unionism in this country.

He explained the origin of Labor Day, and showed how in latter years the laboring man has constantly striven to better his condition and his environment. He complimented the local unions for the work that they have been doing to help along the betterment of their fellowman. He cited an instance of how the members of a local union had provided for a man who was sick until he recovered. He thought that this kind of work was the best reason why the unions should continue to grow and prosper.

Following Mayor Moore was W. P. Ctacy, Esq., of the Wilmington bar, who was also introduced by Mr. Jones. In eloquent and glowing words he pictured the development of the idea of unionism, and showed how the working people of America have made their fight and won their place by reason of the high character of their work, and greater intelligence of the laborer and the higher eniciency of their training.

Athletic Events

This closed the speaking for the afternoon, the audience dispersing to witness the athletic events which took place in front of Lumina on the beach. Mr. J. B. Huntington acted as marshal, Messrs. Luther B. Jones and Joe Gillerlain, judges; Mr. F. Morrison starter, and Messrs. Smith and Alderman, clerks of course.

The prizes consisted of five round trip tickets for first prize, three round trip tickets for second prize, and one round trip ticket for third prize.

In the 100-yard da sh for those weighing under 110 pounds, W. M. Leftwich won first prize; Ernest Smith second; Chas. Griffith, third prize. In the 110-yard dash, open to all, H. Coughenhour won first prize; R. Williams, second, and Walter Hashagen, third prize. In the 100-yard dash, open to union men only, the first prize was won by E. C. Pittman, second prize by James Whitby and third prize by H. Lee.

In the running broad jump, open to all, the first prize was won by H. Coughenhour, second prize by W. Parsley, third prize by W. Hashagen. In the running broad jump, open to union men the first prize was won by H. Lee, second prize by H. Jewell, third prize by E. Pittman.

In the sack race, open to all, the first prize was won by W. Parsley, second by Louis Cotchett, and third by N. R. Pittman. In the rope climb, open to all, the first prize was won by R. E. Calder, second by B. F. Morris, and third by H. M. Prince.

The apple-eating contest was an amusing feature and Tony Simons carried off first honors. George Frederick came second, and William Leftwich was third.

In the flag race, open to girls only, the first prize was won by Miss Madge Cavanaugh, second prize by Miss Mary Bergen, third prize by Miss Mary Warren. In the human race, open to all, the first prize was won by W. Parsley and L. Cotchett, second prize by W. Hashagen and R. Williams, third prize by George Hashagen and H. Coughenhour. This event consisted of one man carrying the other for half the distance when the yexchanged and the other carried the former. It was very interesting as well as laugable.

Aquatic Contests

Following the athletic events came the aquatic event which was a canoe race. The surf was rather rough but the races went off without any serious trouble. One of the canoes hit a young lady who was in bathing, but she was not seriously hurt beyond being badly stunned for the moment. The first prize in the event was won by R. Davis and William Lord; second by D. Murchison and H. Watters, and third by G. Clark and I. Corbett.

These were the last athletic and aquatic events of the Summer, being the fifht in the series of five. A prize of three round trip tickets to the beach was awarded to H. Coughenhour for the largest number of points won. Robert Davis and William Lord were declared the champion canoeists for the season, and each given by the Tidewater Power Company a pair of spalding sweaters.

DR. N. M. CULBRETH PASSES

Died Last Night at Home of Son, Dr. N. A. Culbreth, in This City—Funeral Here and Interment at Whiteville.

Hundreds of friends in the city and throughout the State will be grieved to learn of the death of Dr. Neill Monroe Culbreth, which occurred last night at 10:45 at the home of his son Dr. N. A. Culbreth, No. 707 Princess street. He had been in failing health for more than two years, and had been confined to his bed most of the time for the last five months.

He went to Virginia several months ago, but finding no relief, he returned to Wilmington August 12th. He was one of Wilmington's best known and most beloved citizens. He removed to Raleigh about five years ago, and returned here only a few months ago. For many years he was a resident of Whiteville.

The funeral will be held from the residence of Dr. Culbreth and Grace Methodist church this afternoon, at an hour to be announced later. The services will be conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. D. Bundy. The interment will be at Whiteville, beside the graves of his two deceased children, Gray M. and Lubin Monroe Culbreth.

Surviving Dr. Culbreth, besides his wife, are eight children, as follows: Mrs. L. V. Culbreth, Whiteville; Mrs. R. E. van Laer, Richmond, Va.; Dr. N. A. Culbreth, Wilmington; Mrs. E. W. Butcher, Jr., Petersburg, Va.; Mr. J. Frank Culbreth, New York City; Mrs. B. W. Page, Lumberton; Miss Julia R. Culbreth, director of vocal music of Carolina College, Maxton, and Miss Rebecca Culbreth, Wilmington.

Dr. Culbreth was born near Roseboro, Sampson county, October 10th, 1849, and was, therefore, in the 64th year of his age. He was the fifth child of the late Marshall B. and Eliza Jane Culbreth. He was reared on the farm, and when hostilities broke out between the North and the South, his father and two older brothers went to the front, leaving him, a boy of [illegible] years old, to take care of his mother and four younger brothers and sisters.

The first work that he did after leaving his father's home, was to teach vocal music, in which he was very successful. On July 8th, 1874, he married Miss Lizzie Memory, daughter of the late Col. T. S. Memory, of Whiteville. From this union there were born ten children, eight of whom are living.

He graduated in dentistry from the University of Tennessee with distinction February 28th, 1882, and afterwards received from the medical department of the same institution the degree of M. D. He was regarded as very successful in the practice of his chosen profession of dentistry. He was also a public-spirited citizen, and was first elected justice of the peace at Whiteville, where he was living, and later elected Mayor, which office he held for four years.

In the Fall of 1890 he was elected to the State Senate, where he served with credit to himself and with honor to his constituents. At the close of the session he was appointed by the late Governor Fowler as one of the directors of the Insane Asylum at Goldsboro, and two years later was reappointed to the same position by the late Governor Elias Carr. He resigned this position when appointed postmaster at Whiteville during President Cleveland's last administration. He served in all these positions most acceptably to the people, and went out of office at the close of President Cleveland's administration without a stain on the record of his public life.

Since that time he had devoted his entire time and energy to the practice of his profession, in which he was highly successful.

He removed to Wilmington and practiced here for some time, and then removed to Raleigh about five years ago. He remained there until a few months ago, when, on account of failing health, he returned to Wilmington, and became associated with his son, Dr. N. A. Culbreth, in the practice of dentistry.

Early in life he began attending Sunday school at old Bethel church, in Sampson county, and in the year 1867 he professed faith in Christ, and joined the church under the ministry of the late Rev. T. J. Gattis. Since that time he had lived a God-fearing life, and was prepared for death when it came. In every walk of life he did his duty, faithfully, as he saw it, and never forgot the principles of upright living which he learned in his young manhood.

Ready-to-Wear Fashions.

Long Cutaways, Blouse effects and Straight Cut Coats, with Mandarin Sleeves, are most favored models in Suits. The skirts are draped more than ever, and show many novel ideas. Materials are very rich and make up to wonderful advantage.

The great variety of materials and brilliant colors used in Silk Dresses make it impossible to accurately describe the new styles. One must see them to fully appreciate the beauty of these models.

Millinery Fashions.

Velvets are most strongly featured in this season's Millinery, while velours, plushes and brocades are proving very potent adversaries. Moires, satins and fancy silks are shown in many of the Fall models, figuring in their trimming as well as the facing of their brims. Although brilliant colors prevail, the black hat is decidedly to the fore. Shapes are small, close-fitting, and include soft collapsible crowns, sailor and capeline effects. High trimmings, of which ostrich has been chosen as the favorite, will be used for the Fall and Winter dress hat.

Glove Fashions.

The popularity of three-quarter sleeves in the new suits necessitates the wearing of long kid gloves, although the wearing of short gloves with fancy embroidered backs will be very much in rogue this season.

FELL BENEATH CARS.

Mr. Paul A. Grantham, of Wilmington, Killed by a Freight Train.

Mr. Paul A. Grantham, a young trainman of this city, was killed Sunday morning at 4:30 o'clock by falling between the cars of a local freight train just before it reached Mullins, S. C. It is not known how the tragic accident happened, as he was not missed until the train reached Mullins. A search was instituted, and he was found a few miles back. Several trucks of the freight cars had passed over his body so that it was mutilated almost beyond recognition.

The body was taken to Mullins, and after being viewed by the coroner, who pronounced his death to be due to an accident, it was prepared for burial by an undertaker and sent to Newbern, his old home. He was a young man about 23 years of age, and was a brakeman on the train which had his death. His parents formerly lived at Mt. Olive.

It is thought by some of his fellow members of the crew that he must have met with foul play, as it was stated that there were one or two hoboes riding on the train. He may have been pushed over by one of these, though there is little ground for suspecting this, beyond the fact that he was an experienced man, and would not, therefore, be likely to fall between cars.

Wrightsville Beach

..The 1913 season has passed into history.

Messrs. Julian R. Clements, the chief clerk, and Mr. James F. Divine, affectionately known about the hotel as "Jimmy," assistant day clerk, at the Seashore Hotel the past season, will be connected with Greensboro hotels this Winter.

The splendid orchestra which has furnished music at the Seashore Hotel for the season under the direction of Mr. Claude Elam, closed its engagement Sunday morning and several of the musicians left on the afternoon and evening trains to spend a few days vacation elsewhere before going to Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, where they will fill their usual Winter engagement.

Marking the formal close of the Beach season for 1913, the dining room of the Seashore Hotel closed after supper last night. For the accommodation of a few who always like to spend a while in September at the resort, Edgar L. Hinton, the popular manager of the hotel, will keep the south wing of the hotel open for a few days longer, and those taking rooms in the hotel may secure their meals from the hotel cafe, just across the car tracks. The Seashore Hotel entertained more people the past season than ever before in its history. The popularity of the hotel grows with each succeeding season, and Captain Hinton expects the crowd to be even larger next year.

"Polly Peachtree" in the Sunday Atlanta American:

"I hear that Mrs. James Morrow is by far the most stunning figure at Wrightsville Beach right now. This magnificent Atlanta matron of course, never is back of the first row when the judging of splendid womanhood is in question. And so if she is dominating the smart set at Wrightsville it is by the force of her own charming personality.

"Mrs. Morrow, I am told, is the admired center of all eyes on the beach. She wears a beautiful bathing suit of royal purple trimmed with white, and it sets off her beauty to fine advantage.

"Mrs. Morrow is a great lover of out-door sports. She excels not only on the beach, but as a horsewoman as well. A horse show without Mrs. Morrow would be like a cocktail without a cherry. It certainly makes me proud that I am an Atlantan when I hear my fellow-townswomen praised as my informant praised Mrs. Morrow."

"Polly Peachtree" in the Sunday Atlanta American:

"Dame Rumor has been busy for the last two years coupling the names of many pretty girls with that of Vincent Astor. And last week I heard the name of an Atlanta girl in this connection. As it came to me this young woman had quite a flirtation with young Vincent. I am not at all sure that this is so, but I do know that one of this young woman's 'dearest friends' is telling about her conquest of the world's richest young man.

"The talking friend is quoted as saying that she wants Atlanta to know how much attention the aforesaid young woman has been receiving — even Vincent Astor being muchly impressed—'simply crazy about her,' was what her fond friend said. I am sure if this paragraph reaches the Newport young women who are cherishing hopes of young Astor and his fortune, they will be vastly distressed."

Evidently the latest Atlanta girl to "flirt" with Astor was a young lady well known and popular at Wrightsville Beach, where she spent several weeks this Summer. The report while she was at the beach was that this young lady, who is a graceful dancer and is very attractive, had made quite an impression on young Astor.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE OPENS.

Supt. I. C. Griffin, of Marion, in Charge —Many Teachers Attending.

The first session of the institute for the teachers of New Hanover opened yesterday at the Hemenway school building on Fifth street with Prof. I. C. Griffin, superintendent of the Marion, N. C., graded school, in charge. There are a large number of the teachers of the city and county schools in attendance, though it is a little remarkable that yesterday therae was not a single gentleman present with the exception of Prof. Griffin and Prof. Catlett, the county superintendent. The institute will continue for two weeks.

The institute was opened by Prof. Catlett, who, in a few appropriate words introduced Prof. Griffin. The general scope of work that will be done during the two weeks was outlined by Prof. Griffin. He emphasized especially the need of better trained teachers, saying that the time had come when there was a demand for trained workers in every occupation and profession.

Following Prof. Griffin's interesting and instructive talk Miss Susie Fulghum, of Goldsboro, who will have charge of the Primary work during the institute, briefly indicated the work that will be done under her direction during the two weeks. Both Miss Fulghum and Prof. Griffin have had much experience in the school room, and are skilled teachers.

The institute for colored teachers also opened yesterday at the Peabody school building on Sixth street between Red Cross and Campbell, with a good attendance. Rev. J. Bonner, principal of the Peabody school, is the director in charge. Prof. Catlett will also divide his time between the white and coloded institutes.

PROBE TO CONTINUE.

Investigation will Hear Miner's Version of Coal Strike Trouble.

Washington, Sept. 1.—West Virginia coal operators will be given an opportunity to relate their version of the coal strike troubles in the Paint Creek Mine Fields, when the Senate special committee resumes hearings Wednesday.

The committee had expected to return to West Virginia to complete the inquiry begun last Spring, but the promonged tariff debate has led its members to arrange for hearing in Washington. One of two members may find it necessary to go to West Virginia for a few days, but as many of the witnesses as possible will be heard here.

Cincinnati, Sept. 1.—The National Baseball Commission denied the request of the Boston National League Club that the sale of players Duncan to the Philadelphia Nationals and Wilson to the Toronto Club by the Dallas club, of the Texas League, be set aside.

WILL INDICT DELINQUENTS

Commissioners Order List Turned Over to Solicitor—Increase Funds for Crop Improvement—Corner Property Values.

Arrangement for the indictment of delinquents in tax listing; increased appropriation for the county demonstration work; decision to let stand as fixed by the special assessors, the valuation of corner property on improved streets, and the reading of various reports with action thereon comprised the work of the County Commissioners in their monthly meeting yesterday afternoon.

Auditor Orrell reported that since advertising that delinquents who had not listed poll and property during the regular tax listing period, would be indicted unless they listed before September 1st, over $15,000 of real and over $19,000 of personal had been listed, together with 256 polls, the revenue from which, if all the tax is collected, will be about $895; but he made the surprising statement that nearly all the polls listed were by people not on his delinquent list, so that there are still hundreds of names of unlisted people. The Commissioners ordered that a corrected list be turned over to the salicitor for presentation to the grand jury for indictment next week when Superior Court will be in session. There is determination on the part of the Commissioners to get in behind a number of well-to-do and, even wealthy citizens who, it is alleged, have been dodging property tax by listing with the sheriff their poll tax only, and paying to that official just the amount of the poll and no more. This practice is said to have obtained quite frequently in the past, but this year every unlisted man will face Superior Court, where, if only the costs are assessed, it is said the expense to them will be $15 or $20. Besides this, they will be listed anyway, as delinquents, and every one of them forced to pay double the amount of tax he would have paid had he listed at the proper time.

More For Demonstration Work.

Mr. J. P. Herring, county demonstrator, made his report, reviewed the year's work, and stated that he had served the farmers as best he could during the year, at a loss, however, to his own farming interests, for the time he had given to the work, he said could have been spent more profitably to himself on his own farm. He stated that he could not serve another year at the same salary, $800 for 10 months. The Commissioners expressed themselves as entirely satisfied of the excellence of the work and of the conscientious discharge of his duties by Mr. Herring, and on motion of Commissioner Kerr, voted to increase the appropriation of the county for this work from $400 to $750, on condition that the government increase its appropriation from $400 to $500, which the government will do.

Mr. Herring said that while he could not and would not claim all the credit for it, it was a fact that more corn would be raised in New Hanover this year than in many years; that farmers who have been buying corn this year would have enough to last them all next year. He felt that he was in some degree responsible for it. He was urging the farmers to plant winter cover crops, and trying to arouse interest in grading products and packing them in neater packages. He had helped Mr. E. N. Clark gather exhibits of products for the Atlantic Coast Line Garden Spot car exhibit for the Canadian fairs, and had visited 38 farms in August. He had attended the demonstration agents' "school" at Raleigh for two weeks and felt he had received much profit. If the board thought the increase mentioned was too much, he would be glad to help them select another for his place, and promised hearty co-operation. He further offered, if the salary was increased to became entirely responsible for the county home farm, and this he will now do, advising with Supt. Rasbery.

The question of securing $1,000 from Chicago interests who have offered that much to any county raising a similar amount for demonstration work, came up, and the matter will be investigated. Guilford, Catawba, Edgecombe and perhaps several other counties have availed themselves of this offer.

Corner Property Values.

The question of the assesment of corner property on improved streets was settled by decision to let the valuation as placed by the special assessors, Messrs. C. C. Covington and Eduard Aherns, stand. Objection of corner property owners was made some time ago to the effect that it was unfair to assess corner property on two streets, the gist of this argument being that corner properly, because it was corner property and therefore more valuable than property in the middle of a block, was already assessed at a higher valuation than other property. On the other hand, Chairman Willard made the point that the percentage laid against property on improved streets took the place of the direct requirement in many towns, that abutting property pay a part of the actual cost of the improvement; and that as for corner property, if the street it faced were improved now, it would be taxed for the improvements, and if in a few years the street along side of it were improved, it would again be taxed a proportion of the cost, so that it was just and fair for corner property to pay for improvements on both its adjoining streets.

Various Monthmly Reports.

The county farm report showed that during August vegetables, milk and butter, melons and fodder sold and saved, amounted to $230.83. The road superintendent reported 107 convicts now on the chaingang; 26 received during August and 22 released; one died and five escaped. The Commissioners ordered a reward of $10 each for information leading to the arrest of Nathan Ballard and Frank Williams, who escaped Sunday night from the camp on the Gordon road. They are negroes, described in an advertisement in today's Star.

The report also stated that the auto truck had carried 500 tons of material to the Scott's Hill road in August; that two car loads had been placed at Moore's siding and 14 loads sent to the Greenville road; the road from the school house road to the Northeast river bridge at Castle Haynes, has been finished and the camp moved to the Gordon road; the gang has built a road from the Hard road to the railroad and resurfaced one-half mile from the roailroad out on the Gordon road; has patched the Castle Haynes road and cut away weeds and bushes from the Smith Creek bridge to the 7-Mile Post, and cut same away along the shell road from the city to the sound, also patching the shell road; one car of Tarvia oil has been spread over a width of 16 feet for a distance of 3 1-2 miles—2 2-10 miles on the shell road and 1 3-10 miles on the Federal Point road. The gang on the Federal Point road has cut out and "stumped" a right of way of two miles at the lower end of Freeman's field, and has taken up a mile of the railroad and brought the rails to the city.

Proposed Trolley Line.

Something more was said about the sale of the railroad to the Wilmington Beach Corporation, and County Attorney Marsden Bellamy was asked to look it up and see what law there might be governing the grant of a right of way on the public road, now occupied by the railroad. It is understood that if the road is purchased, it will be left where it is and converted into a trolley line to Wilmington and Carolina beadnes. Already graded, it would make an ideal road for this purpose. The coporation is expected to submit a definite proposal shortly.

The Red Cross Society's report showed expenditures for July of $196.80, and for August, $239.29. The county gives $250 a month to the society. In its efforts to alleviate suffering from consumption and to cure the afflicted ones, the society furnishes milk and eggs as a diet in the course of treatment, and it is interesting to note that its milk bill for July was $45 and for August was $69.40.

The report of the Clerk of Superior Court showed $453.30 paid over to the auditor up to and including August 29th. The Associated Charities, which gets $200 monthly from the county, reported expenditures of $155.50 in August. A bill from Sergeant Grimsley, of the police force, for $5 for capturing Callie Rogers, escaped from the county farm, was turned down because the county attorney said the law forbids payment of rewards to an officer in the county. The payment of the remainder of $2,000 due on the Northeast river bridge was deferred until the next meeting.

Chairman Willard announced he had a letter from a Detroit bond house asking if a bid of $25,013, bonds and attorneys' opinion to be furnished by the buyer, would be considered for the road and school bonds. Apparently the writer intended to say $125,013, to cover the whole present issue. No action was taken. It was pointed out that Mecklenburg had sold her bond issue of four and a half per cent. at par, but it was also asserted that the Mecklenburg proposition wouldn't figure out par. The money is to be deposited with the buyer and drawn as needed in this case. The board has indefinitely postponed selling the bonds, which bear five per cent.

Present yesterday were Chairman Willard and Commissioneors Kerr and McGirt; County Attorney Marsden Bellamy and Clerk Williams.

..Theatrical..

The Academy is ready to open its season for 1913-'14 Friday night, with a big scenic production of the great New England play, "Quincy Adams Sawyer," which will be recalled as one of the biggest hits of several seasons ago at the local playhouse. It will make a superb inauguration of what brilliant theatrical season, and seats will go on sale at Plummer's Thursday morning.

"Quincy Adams Sawyer" in play form will be a welcome attraction, and the popularity of the famous New England novel of the same name assures crowded attendances. It is a play of New England home life, full of all the feelings and sentiments that are natural to such life. The young man from whom the book and the play have their titles is a wealthy young Boston lawyer who goes into the country for his health. He finds a beautiful woman, a blind girl, who wins his love, and their courtship and devotion is very beautiful. The play is full of unique and interesting characters. The scenic equipment is a most elaborate one, all built specially for this production, which competent critics have predicted will easily rival the success of any New England play ever presented.

"Mutt and Jeff" Twice Saturday.

Saturday the Academy will present "Mutt and Jeff in Panama," a new and brilliant version of this famous musical comedy, and the large company of pretty girls, fine singers and clever comedians, in a setting of magnificent costumes and concert scenery, will hold forth at both matinee and night. The matinee will be made a popular one, as the prices will be but 25 and 50 cents to all parts of the house. Children will be charged but 25 cents, which should attract the little folks by the hundreds.

The new "Mutt and Jeff" is called "In Panama." In it Bud Fisher's two comical characters lend their valuable aid in the formal opening of the big canal. This play represents a new era of musical comedy production, inasmuch as it embodies all of the elements of good entertainment, including farce comedy, extravaganza, drama and travesty, all shaped into a musical comedy of the approved sort.

The Grand's Bill.

Five films at the cozy, handsome Grand Theatre today. It will be a quintet that will immensely please the big audience that gather at this comfortable spot, and there will also be plenty of new and merry music, to add to the attractiveness of the rare occasion. Fun will be especially strong on the programme, as the Biograph's leading smile picture, "The Sweatbox," is the star. It tells of how Bridget's husband gets an attack of skinflintis and the cure that is administered. "A Chinese Puzzle" tells how a bogus Chink, with his poetic nature, eloped with the daughter of a very foolish woman. Then there is another mirth-producer in "The Man Who Wouldn't Marry." The dramatic has not been lost sight of today, however, as Selig's big success in this line, "The Devil and Tom Walker," will be a feature. There will also be a swell scenic photoplay of beautiful Arizona. Just think! Five big pictures for 5c.

Today at the Bijou.

The Bijou celebrated Labor Day in fine manner yesterday, and large crowds enjoyed the occasion there. Today this popular playhouse will follow up yesterday's triumps with another wonderful success. Four films, each a big star, will make up today's offering, and the list will be headed by Selig's most remarkable dramatic: "Man and His Other Self." It is really a great problem play, telling how man's better self and his worse self struggle for supremacy, and which finally wins. Rousing comedy will be a feature, headed by the Vitagraph's daintiest society comedy, "Let 'Em Quarrel," in which clever, charming Florence Turner will assume the stellar role. "When Love Loses Out" is Lubin's ludicrous contribution, telling of how a woman loves both a fat and a slim fellow and makes them run a race, until they learn she wears a wig. And there is another biy fun film in "Building a Trust," being the story of the meaneuvers of a Chinese laundryman.

—The local weather office displayed storm signals last night, there being a disturbance of considerable intensity off the Carolina and Virginia coasts. Vessels were cautioned.

HEFLIN ROASTS MILITANTS

The Alabama Congressman Inveighs Against Equal Suffrage and Calls on Women to "Stop, Look and Listen."

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 1.—Representative Heflin of Alabama, flung another challenge to woman suffragists today, when in a Labor Day address here under the auspices of the Young Mens Christian Association he pleaded for woman's work at the home instead of at the ballot. He declared that "in the mad clamor for the ballot women are hazarding much and entering upon a perilous journey" and warned them to "Stop, Look, Listen."

"Ohio defeated woman suffrage by an overwhelming majority," said Mr. Heflin. "Michigan defeated it by a tremendous vote. New Jersey had woman suffrage and, by common consent of both men and women, abandoned it. The militant suffragettes of England in their rage of wild fanaticism are trampling upon the laws of God and man. They are committing assaults on English officials and burning the churches of the living God. Upon the home-loving, mantrusting, consecrated Christian women of the United States rests the safety of our institutions and the prepetuity of this Republic."

Mr. Heflin quoted Paul's saying to the Ephesians "The husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church" and he added: "Some of these suffragettes have little patience with Paul and the teaching of the Christian religion. At Birmingham, Ala., a very distinguished former official of the State asked a suffragette how she got around the doctrine of Paul and she replied quickly, 'Damn old Paul.'"

"The Calmucks," he continued, "believed that the first inhabitants of earth were divine and had wings and luminous faces, but there was a fruit called 'shime' which was sweet and very tempting. They began to taste it, but, alas, it deprived them of all their perfections. Their wings fell off and the brilliancy of their faces disappeared. Beware, my good woman. There are graves dangers lurking along this road of equal suffrage.

"My friends, just as sure as you live and I live and God reigns the harmonious relations that have existed between the sexes will disappear with equal suffrage. Sex antagonism will spring up in its wake and sentiment between the sexes will be destroyed. Create antagonism between the sexes, destroy sentiment between the sexes, and the American home is doomed, and the American Repulic is dead.

"This woman suffrage movement is the greatest peril now threatening the English-speaking people. In the name of the American home, in the name of our beloved institutions, in the name of generations yet unborn, in the name of the gentle home-loving women of American, I call upon you to fight this dangerous deadly movement and to save the life of this nation from the dangers that threaten it.

"It is neither proper or necessary that women should vote. The exigencies of the occasion do not authorize or demand it. A woman suffragist said: 'I am fighting for my emancipation.' The emancipation she is seeking is emancipation from the plans of nature and the laws of God. The family is the social unit, the harmonious whole with one head, not two heads."

Congratulating Virginia on the fact that woman suffrage did not exist "in the home of Washington and Jefferson," Mr. Heflin declared his belief that "the woman suffrage movement it not conducive to the charm and gentleness of the highest womanhood, that it does not inspire and encourage the ideals of the Christian religion nor make for modesty and refinement." He portrayed the mother service as the highest and noblest mission in the world and said that to train the voter was more important than to vote.

"I sand," he said "with uncovered head at the shrine of gentle, modest womanhood. The mother contributes sons and daughters to the commonwealth and the country. Her sons carry on civil government in peace and fight for its preservation in time of war. Her daughters keep the fires of maternal love forever burning. They are the golden links in the endless chain of the Almighty's plan to people the earth with beings whom God with his image blesses. It is as true as Holy Writ that 'The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.'"

Mr. Heflin closed by reading excerpts from statements against suffrage made by some of the women in suffrage states.

CONSERVATION EXPOSITION

Organized Labor Joins Officials in Programme of Opening Day at Knoxville—Thousands Participate in Pageant.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 1.—The first National Conservation Exposition was formally opened here today. Organized labor joined with exposition officials in the day's programme, which included a celebration both of Labor Day and of the opening of the exposition.

A pageant in which thousands of persons participated was the opening feautre of the day's exercises. Many displays to be exhibited at the exposition grounds were carried through the streets on large floats, followed by hundreds of members of labor unions and others employed in Knoxville's factories. The parade proceeded from the downtown section to the exposition grounds.

President Woodrow Wilson, through a wirless message extending congratulations and expressing hearty sympathy with the undertaking formally opened the exposition. His message was received in 'Joy Street' the midway of the Exposition City where a wireless station had been improvised. At the meeting which followed the receipt of the President's message, Governor B. W. Cooper and Mayor S. G. Heiskell welcomed the Exposition officials and visitors for the State and City. Both predicted great educational benefits from the exposition. President T. Asbury Wright of the exposition responded. He outlined the purpose of the under taking as the promotion of conservation of natural resources, particular reference to be paid to forests and streams.

The exposition will continue until November 1. Among the exhibits are many provided by the federal government dealing with agricultural, live stock and kindred subjects.

CRITICISM INVITED.

Committee to Hear Suggestions For Amendments to Currency Bill.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Public criticism of the administration currency bill, and suggestions for amendments to it, will be invited for the first time tomorrow when prominent bankers, experts and business men will appear by invitation before the Senate Banking and Currency committee to give their views of the proposed legislation.

Repeated charges that the opinions of financial experts have not been fully considered in the framing of the new bill have been partly responsible for the opening of public hearings by Chairman Owen, of the Senate committee. A preliminary study of the measure by the Democrats on the committee already has been made, but hearing will be conducted for at least a week before any effort is made to agree upon tentative changes or modifications of the bill which is to be taken up in the House tomorrow.

J. B. Forgan, of the First National Bank, Chicago, and George M. Reynolds, of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of the same city, probably will be the leading witnesses in the first day's session of the hearings. They are understood to represent different views as to currency reform, and their testimony is expected to develop a critical review of the Glass-Owen bill.

Among others invited to appear before the committee are E. F. Swinney, Kansas City; Samuel Untermyer, New York; Festus J. Wade, St. Louis; Professor Jermiah Jenks, Cornell University; Joseph T. Talbert, Vive President the National City Bank, New York; Logan C. Murray, president of the Louisville Board of Frade; H. A. Mohelentah, president of the Wisconsin Bankers Association; Professor Irving Fisher, Yale University; Newton D. Allington, president of the Nassau National Bank, New York, J. T. M. Johnson, of the National Reserve Bank, Kansas City; W. H. Allen, New York; E. D. Hulbert, of the Merchants Loan and Trust Company, Chicago; C. H. Davis, Petersburg, Va., and John Wannamaker, Philadelphia.

NEWPORT RIVER REPORT

War Department Adverse to Improving Channel at This Time

Washington, Sept. 1.—The War Department today made an adverse report to the House on the proposed improvement of Newport river in North Carolina from its mouth to to head of navigation.

Chief Engineer Rossell said that the improvement desired is a channel seven feet deep from the junction of Newport river, and the inland waterway up to the town of Newport, that the present commerce on the river is small and that the improvement would be expensive and not commensurate with the cost at this time.

Newport river has its source in the swampy sections of the west portion of Carteret county, North Carolina, a few miles north and west of the village of Newport, and connects with the inland waterway from Pamlico Sound to Beaufort inlet, a few miles north of Beaufort.

MORE DRY DOCKS NEEDED.

Report Recommends Improvements in Naval Station Near Cape Hatteras.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Lack of berthing slips and drydocks in pointed out as the distinctly important weakness of our naval stations located north of Cape Hatteras, in a report to Secretary Daniels by the naval board of inspection of all Northern navy yeards.

Additional dry docks on the North Atlantic coast in the opinion of the board are essential for the needs of the Atlantic fleet, and it suggests that Jamaica island at the Porthsmouth navy yards should be acquired as the site of two additional drydocks.

Good Time Now for Blood Health

Warm Days and Proper Help do Wonders for the Blood.

A few doses of that wonderful blood purifier, S. S. S., will start activities in the cellular tissues of the body and soon show decided changes in the skin. The skin is but a fine network of tiny blood vessels, and the specific action of S. S. S. is declared to be a pronounced stimulation of the activity of these cells. Certain it is that in a surprisingly short time any skin eruption shows a most remarkable change; it begins to dry up; the skin scales off in tiny flecks, and soon a layer of clear, healthy and firm tissue results.

The reason for this is in the peculiar stimulation of S. S. S., which enables the cells in the skin to select from the blood the nutriment it requires for regeneration.

This fact has been demonstrated year in and year out in a wonderful number of cases of severe skin diseases that had seemed to be incurable.

You can obtain S. S. S. at any well stocked drug store, if you insist upon it, but be sure you are not talked into something "just as good."

S. S. S. is prepared by the Swift Specific Co., 180 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write for their illustrated book on skin diseases.

that in time of crisis history abounds with illustrations of the general will rising to heights of which few individual citizens have ever before been conscious.

Enlarging on this idea, Lord Haldane advocated the development of a full international "Sittlichkeit" or ethical habit among nations, as well as within nations. He recognized that its development was more hopein the case of nations with some special relation than within a mere aggregate of nations. In this connection he said that recent events in Europe and the way in which the great powers had worked together to preserve the peace of Europe as if ing one community, pointed to ethical possibilities of the group em as deserving of close study by statesmen, and students. Drawhis address to a close, Lord Halne pointed to the century of peace hich has existed between the Unitd States and the people of Canada nd Great Britain, during which the eoples of these countries have come o a greater possession of common ends and ideals natural to the Anglo-Saxon group. The binding quality of this international "Sittlichkeit," he declared, resulted in the fact that a vast number of citizens would not today count it decent to violate the obligations which that feeling suggested.

He advocated the settlement of differences between these three countries in the spirit and in the manner in which citizens settle their differences, and in this connection he said it was a splendid example to the world that Canada and the United States should have nearly four thousand miles of frontier practically unfortified.

The Lord Chancellor then pointed out the special responsibility of lawyers for the preservation of the future relations of friendship between the United States, Canada and Great Britain, in the fact that lawyers play a large part in public affairs and influence their fellowmen in questions far beyond the province of law, and extending in the relations of society to that "Sittlichkeit" of which he spoke. In this connection he added:

"I believe that if, in the language of yet another President, in the famous words of Lincoln, we as a body in our minds and hearts highly resolve to work for the general recognition by society of the binding character of international duties and rights as they arise within the Anglo-Saxon group, we shall not resolve in vain."

In conclusion he spoke as follows: "But the occasion has seemed to me significant of something beyond even its splendid hospitality. I have interpreted it, and I think not wrongly, as the symbol of a desire that extends beyond the limits of this assemblage. I mean the desire that we should steadily direct our thoughts to how we can draw into closest harmony the nations of a race in which all of us have a common pride. If that be now a far-spread inclination, then indeed may the people of three great countries say to Jerusalem 'Thou shalt be built,' and to the temple, 'Thou foundation shall be laid,'"

The day's programme concluded with the conferring of honorary degrees by McGill University upon the following distinguished members of the legal profession:

Viscount Haldane, Chief Justice Edward Douglas White of the United States Supreme Court; Prime Minister Robert L. Borden, of Canada; Maitre F. Labor, Batonnier De L'Ordre Des Avocates A. LaCour de Paris, France; William H. Taft, former President of the United States; Charles J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, and Attorney General of Canada; Joseph H. Choate, former Ambassador from the United States to Great Britain; Elihu Root, United States Senator from New York; Frank B. Kellogg, president of the association.

Premier Borden, in his address of welcome, made felicitious reference to the ties of commerce and friendship between the United States and Canada. Jacob Dickinson, former American Secretary of War, who introduced Mr. Borden, replied in behalf of the association.

The address of President Kellogg which followed, dealt with the "treaty-making power," and discussed the controversy aroused by the California anti-alien land law. Mr. Kellogg maintained the Federal government has a right to make treaties regulating the status of foreign citizens within the States.

"If," said Mr. Kellogg, "citizens of Japan have any right to own real estate in California, it is difficult to see how this law takes away such right, because it provides in substance that such aliens may acquire, possess, enjoy and transfer real estate in the manner and to the extent and for the purposes prescribed by any treaty."

The California law, he explained, discriminates between aliens eligible and those not eligible to citizenship, permitting the former to possess, enjoy, transmit and inherit real property in the same manner as citizens, and limiting those not eligible to citizenship to the rights extended to them by treaty with the government the United States.

He said it was understood, however, by the public generally that rnia claims the right to legisrespect to land held by aliens, anding any treaty provisions federal government. He asthe question thus raised importance to our naion to foreign gov-that it is not to be e people of the tended to confer overnment a less n exercised by oth- the dawn of civiliza-

inted out that few individual s in confederations have retain- the treaty making power, and of these the Greek republics perished, nd other confederations have chang- their form of government, so that the treaty-making power is now ed in the nation.

If it be true that the Federal government may not make a treaty upon any matter which is ordinarily reserved for the governmental control of the State," he said, "a principal part of the treaty-making power, as it has en exercised for more than one ndred and twenty-five years, is ept away, for the central governnt has exercised this power, and is absolutely necessary that it uld do so in order to protect foren citizens in their rights and to mand and receive for our citizens same rights in foreign countries. cannot expect that American citens will be respected and receive e protection to which they are entitled under the principles of international law and the custom of nations if we declare that our government is so impotent that it cannot give to foreign citizens within the States the same protection.

"It was in the light of history and with the full knowledge of the condition of the treaty-making power, and of the violation of treaties by the States, that the constitution was adopted by the convention of every State after the widest discussion and deliberate consideration. * * * While preserving the widest field consistent with liberty in the individual, it was an attempt to confer upon the central government sufficient power to stand among the nations of the earth."

He asserted that the Supreme Court of the United States, fully realizing its grave responsibility, has established beyond pre-adventure the supremacy of the treaties over the laws of the States, and has enforced the rights of foreign citizens in the face of popular prejudice.

Mr. Kellogg commented, however, upon the uniform refusal of Congress to provide legislation to punish violations of treaty rights. He stated that Presidents Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft each urged upon Congress the passage of a statute conferring on the Federal courts jurisdiction to punish violations of Federal treaties by citizens of the various States, but to the present time Congress has not acted. He said:

"But the faith and honor of the nation are pledged to their enforcement, and it is as much the duty of Congress to enact legislation to carry into effect these provisions of our treaties as it is to appropriate money and enact other legislation which Congress has always done to carry out the provisions of our international agreements. The result has been that the only recourse foreign nations have had, has been to demand indemnity for such injuries, which this government has always recognized and paid. No nation claiming the high prerogative of the treaty-making power has a right to shield itself behind the claim that one of the constituent States of the union has violated the treaty, and that the central government has no authority to redress the grievance."

He stated that we resented a similar position taken by Brazil in 1875, and he insisted that the question of the admission of alien races is a national question; that the Federal government alone has the power to exclude them from the States, and if admitted to decide on what terms and conditions this should be done. He considered that the agreement is merely academic, that if there are no implied limitations to the treaty-making power it might be used to dismember the union, abolish the structure of government, or convey away the territory of the States. He asserted that this use of the treaty-making power is not within human probability. He said:

"When the time comes, if it ever shall, that such a demand is made, it will be backed by a military power to enforce it rather than by the untrammeled exercise of the treaty-making power."

There was no regular session of the Bar Association tonight, but the "Association of American Law Schools" held its 13th annual meeting. Henry M. Bates, of the University of Michigan, president of the association, made the opening speech, and the address of the evening was delivered by Edson R. Sunderland, also of the University of Michigan. Professor Sunderland's subject was "The Teaching of Practice and Procedure in Law Schools."

WHITEVILLE CIVIC LEAGUE.

Doing a Lot of Fine Work—Some of the Cases Tried in Court.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., Aug. 30.—The Whiteville Civic League, Mrs. Elmore Powell, president, has been doing fine work for the promotion of health and beautifying and educating the town. The attention of the league has largely been directed toward the needs of the school and cemetery. At its first bazaar held some time ago $237 was made, and the town and county have been induced to appropriate $500 for betterment work. At present the league is fiting up the dining and sitting rooms at the county home. The school library is to be enlarged and pictures purchased for the school auditorium and class rooms. The ladies have been furnishing court visitors with an excellent dinner for 25 cents.

The school census shows 381 white children, of whom 119 are from eight to 12 years old. There are but two illiterates among the whites, making the percentage about one-half of one per cent. There are 262 colored children, and one illiterate. These figures show what the Whiteville school district has been doing to diminish illiteracy.

Monday the county board of health will elect a superintendent of health from physicians who make sealed offers for giving their whole time to the county. Heretofore the county has paid only $500 so that the superintendent could not give his entire attention to the work.

A plea of murder in the second degree was agreed on in the case of Ella Hilburn, and approved by Judge Rountree, after hearing the facts, one of which was the semi-insanity of the woman; and she was sentenced to 20 years in the department for the criminal insane in the penitentiary. She killed her daughter in June because she had given birth to an illegitimate child, first beating her into insensibility with a stick and then pouring scalding water over her body.

AZEVEDO TROUNCES WOLGAST.

Fights His Way to Victory Over Former Light Weight Champion.

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 1.—Joe Azevedo, fought his way to a decision over Ad Wolgast, former light weight champion, today in their ten-round bout here. The going was fast, and the younger fighter clearly earned the verdict. In the seventh round Azevedo knocked Wolgast down. Wolgast fought almost entirely with his left hand, his right apparently being in no condition to inflict punishment.

The Boston club claimed that it had negotiated with the Dallas club and the negotiations had gone so far that it was assured of both players. The commission, however, held there was a difference beween the terms offered by the Boston club and that which the Dallas club would accept and held that the sale of the players to the club were valid.

Geo. L. Peschau, Esq., county solicitor, returned yesterday from Marietta, Ga., where he spent the past two weeks visiting relatives. Mrs. Peschau will remain at Marietta with her parents for a few weeks longer.

CLARK WOULD TAX TRADING IN COTTON

property sold. Mh. Cummins, backed by several other Republican Senators delivered a vigorous criticism of stock and produce exchange operations and urged that Congress do its utmost to discourage or prohibit fictitious trading which he characterized as "gambling."

The Cummins amendment was offered as a substitute for the cotton futures tax proposed by Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, which would impose of one-tenth of one cent per pound on all trades in cotton for future delivery.

Senator Cummins insisted that it was more important to restrict and prohibit fictitious trading in securities and general produce than to simply regulate cotton trading.

The entire question of "futures" finally was referred back to the Senate Finance committee for further consideration.

Transactions on the New York Exchange for 1912 were cited by the Iowa Senator to show the extent of the "gambling" which he declared was breaking down the moral fibre of the business community and saddling immense burdens upon the public in the way of fictitious values in stocks. The sale of stocks of some railroads and industrial corporations, he declared had been from ten to as high as five times the entire stock issue of the road while but a small proportion of stock actually had changed hands

Senator Cummins declared the stock exchange should be restricted to actual sales.

"As it is now, it is not a place for the transfer of actual commodities," he added. "It is a place where experienced and reckless and unscrupluous men balance their wits. It is a place where men of great mental capacity and andacity as well, fight a battle of supremacy, employing not the means which ought to influence the price of commodities but every means which tend to affect the price of things in which they are dealing."

He declared the old Louisiana lottery was a "pink tea," compared with the "orgy of vice," represented in the stock exchange.

Progress on the tariff bill today was limited to the consideration of many items in the chemical, earthenware and other schedules of the bill which had been passed over in the first reading of the measure.

Senator LaFollette insisted that two items in the chemical schedule carried excessive duties.

On one of these, dextrine, made from potato starch, the Senator's suggestion was accepted and an amendment was incorporated into the bill reducing the duty from one and a half cents a pound to one and one-fourth cents.

The one cent pound duty on Chlorate of Potash, Senator LaFollette said should be reduced to one-fourth cent. He added that an agreement had been made with the power "trut" not to sell the article to the United States Government.

"If that is so, I think it should go to the free list," declared Senator O'Gorman.

The committee took the paragraph under consideration.

A suggestion by the Wisconsin Senator that the duty on peanut oil should be reduced from six cents a gallon to one cent, as the former rate was prohibitive, was not acted upon.

DIGGS CASE.

Sentence Will Probably be Postponed Until September 9th.

San Francisco, Sept. 1.—If Judge Van Fleet concurs, sentence on Maury I. Diggs, convicted on four counts of violation the Mann white slave traffic act, will not be pronounced tomorrow, but by agreement of counsel will be postponed until Tuesday, September 9th.

Marshall Woodworth, counsel for Diggs, will ask for a stay of one week, on the ground that his time has been much occupied as chief counsel of F. Drew Caimineti, whose trial on like charges in now in progress, that he has not had leisure to prepare his petition for a new trial.

Diggs is out on $20,000 bail. His lawyers base their motion for a new trial on exceptions to ruling of Judge Van Fleet, and to his charge to the jury.

Aid Given Family.

Following the appeal in The Star Saturday for a family in dire need, the Salvation Army has received a number of donations in cash, clothing and provisions. A house has been rented for three months for the family, and their pressing needs looked after. The mother, however, a large woman, is in need of clothing, few garments being donated for her use. Any wishing to contribute can call the Army headquarters, being assured that it is a worthy cause.

Borrowed His Auto.

Mr. J. P. Herring would like to know who was joy riding in his automobile while he and family were in Washington recently. An officer got the machin's number for speeding and Mr. Herring must tell the Recorder this morning "how come." On the date of the alleged speeding, Mr. Herring and his family were in the country, and somebody borrowed his machine.
